

Lorie Rubenser is currently an associate professor and Graduate Coordinator for the Criminal Justice Department at Sul Ross State University. She is actively involved in student activities including being the chapter advisor for the Alpha Phi Sigma Criminal Justice Honor Society. Additionally, Dr. Rubenser has served on the Executive Council of the Faculty Assembly in various capacities for 8 years.

Dr. Rubenser's research interests include policing issues and minority issues in criminal justice. She currently serves as the Second Vice President of the Southwestern Association of Criminal Justice. Dr. Rubenser is also Co-Editor of the Police Forum publication of the Academy of Criminal Justice Sciences Police Section featuring research articles and other items of interest relating to policing.