

Christine Nix received a Bachelor of Science degree at Hardin Simmons University in 1977 and a Master of Science degree at Sam Houston State University in Criminal Justice Management in 2004. She has continued her studies at Sam Houston State University as a criminal justice doctoral student.

Since August 2005, she has taught at the University of Mary Hardin Baylor as a criminal justice professor.

She is a current member of SWACJ, ACJS, and SCOLAS (Southwest Conference of Latin American Studies).